

Immunohematology

Crossword Puzzle

DOWN

- 1 The thing that automatically washes cells
- 2 One of the types of cells in blood
- 3 A piece of equipment that performs blood bank testing for you
- 4 The thing you use to read a fetal screen
- 5 The commercial preparation used to test for red cell antigens
- 6 The process you have to perform before implementing a new system
- 7 The testing required to be performed before patient results can be released
- 10 The liquid portion of blood
- 13 The term used when both alleles of the blood group antigen are positive
- 14 The thing on the red cell towards which antibodies are directed
- 17 The process of identifying antibodies
- 21 The broad term used for Rh
- 22 The protocol used when a patient is bleeding a LOT
- 25 The broad term used for ABO

ACROSS

- 8 The term used for person's own blood
- 9 The term for the antibodies in the ABO blood group
- 11 The glass thing that was used for blood bank testing in the past
- 12 A platform on which you can test ABO/Rh antibody screening and other blood bank tests
- 15 What we hope does not happen when we transfuse
- 16 The term we use for blood that is okay to transfuse to a patient
- 18 The process to quantify the amount of antibody in a patient's plasma
- 19 The test performed that shows Rh positive cells in an Rh negative circulation
- 20 The resultant liquid when you test for antibodies coating red cells
- 23 The term referring to all antibody identification cells being positive
- 24 The term used when there are 2 doses of the same allele
- 26 The term we use for a compatibility test
- 27 The red stuff that flows through veins
- 28 The thing in the plasma directed towards red blood cell antigens